Rob Williams

Rob Williams is Director of Technology at Cloudficity, He was a primary driver of MiHIN's migration to AWS and continues to support them as they grow and mature in the cloud.

Rob has been working in technology for over 25 years serving in a number of different roles from software developer to database administrator, to product manager. He was the first full time hire for Cloudficity and has spent many happy hours building automations and integrations for doing most anything you can imagine with Amazon Web Services.
